

NORTH KOREA

A supposedly inward looking public believes we have vital interests at stake in the North Korean situation, supports economic sanctions and increasing U.S. military involvement in South Korea. In most polls, over four in ten support allied military action if the situation deteriorates.

Question: Which one of the following do you think is the most serious foreign policy issue facing the United States today...?

Most serious foreign policy issue facing the United States today

Source: Survey by Hart and Teeter Research Companies for NBC News/Wall Street Journal, June 10-14, 1994.

Question: If North Korea does not allow its nuclear production facilities to be inspected to confirm whether it is building a nuclear bomb, would you favor or oppose economic sanctions on North Korea?

Source: Survey by Hart and Teeter Research Companies for NBC News/Wall Street Journal, April 30-May 3, 1994.

Question: If North Korea continues to refuse international inspection, do you think the United States, along with the United Nations, should take military action to destroy North Korea's nuclear facilities, or shouldn't we do this?

Question: Do you think it is worth risking war with North Korea to prevent North Korea from manufacturing nuclear weapons, or don't you feel that way?

If North Korea continues to refuse inspection

Source: Surveys by Yankelovich Partners for Time and CNN, June 15-16, 1994.

Question: Do you think America's vital interests are at stake in the situation involving North Korea (where North Korea has not been allowing full international inspections of sites where it could be developing nuclear weapons), or not?

Note: In a question asked by Yankelovich Partners for Time and CNN in April 1994, 62% said the United States has a great deal at stake in what happens in North Korea, 31% didn't think so. Source: Survey by ABC News/Washington Post, June 7-8, 1994.

Question: As you may know, North Korea has not allowed international inspectors to examine that country's nuclear facilities, despite promises that these inspections would be allowed. In order to support efforts to inspect the North Korean nuclear facilities, would you favor or oppose increasing the number of U.S. troops and military assistance in South Korea?

In order to support efforts to inspect the North Korean nuclear facilities

Source: Survey by the Gallup Organization for CNN and USA Today, March 25-27, 1994.

Question: If (Japan/South Korea) were attacked by North Korea, do you think the United States should use military troops to help defend (Japan/South Korea), or not?

United States should use military troops to help defend

Source: Surveys by the Gallup Organization for USA Today and the Sankei Shimbun, February 1-3, 1994 (about Japan), and for USA Today and CNN, March 25-27, 1994 (about South Korea).